LEADERSHIP

ALEX G. SPANOS

Owner

Alex Spanos and his wife Faye are shining examples of how the American spirit of hard work and determination can pay off for those willing to follow their dreams.

In 1951 at the age of 27, Alex Spanos decided he could no longer support his growing family on $40 per week working in his father's bakery. So he borrowed $800, purchased a used catering truck and set out on his own by providing catering and support services for the migrant farm workers in California's Central Valley.

From those humble beginnings, Spanos' tireless work ethic built one of the leading real estate and development companies in the industry, and today he is the patriarch of one of the most accomplished and philanthropic families in the United States.

A.G. Spanos Companies builds multi-family housing and master planned communities and is one of the nation's largest family-owned builders. Alex Spanos' personal commitment to quality and integrity is now carried on by his family in the daily operation and management of the San Diego Chargers as well as the companies that bear his name.

Spanos made family part of his formula for business success. The A.G. Spanos organization, including the Chargers, is a family-run operation. Alex turned over the day-to-day operations of the Chargers to his oldest son, Dean, in 1994, 10 years after purchasing the team on Aug. 1, 1984. Today he enjoys retirement and watching his sons, Dean and Michael, along with grandsons A.G. and John guide the Chargers as they celebrate the 31st anniversary of the family's ownership.

Spanos' amazing journey and his passion for giving back is outlined in his autobiography, "Sharing the Wealth: My Story," a compelling first-hand account of the events and decisions in his life that became his basic fundamentals for success.

Spanos' community spirit and generosity are renowned. Few can match the benevolence and philanthropy that Alex and Faye have shown through their support of deserving institutions and community-service efforts.

Chargers Owner Alex Spanos and his wife Faye will celebrate 67 years of marriage in 2015. Spanos purchased the team in 1984.

One of his more generous contributions resulted in the opening of the Alex G. Spanos Heart & Vascular Center in Sacramento. San Diegans have Spanos to thank for the huge economic windfall of two Super Bowls (1998 and 2003) and a Republican National Convention to San Diego. In addition to the millions of dollars donated by Spanos and the Chargers Community Foundation, which he established, the Spanos family has delivered more than $12 million to help

San Diego's youth by supporting education as well as health and fitness programs.

In 2008 the President of the Republic of Greece, Mr. Karolos Papoulias, awarded Spanos the Medal of the Commander of the Order of Honor. The honor came in recognition of his many contributions to the birthplace of his parents.

These acts of caring demonstrate the commitment of a man whose rags-to-riches story has been an inspiring example for others. Though his life has taken him places he never dreamed possible, Spanos continues to reside in his hometown of Stockton, California.

Alex and Faye are celebrating 67 years of marriage in 2015. And they will celebrate with their four children (Dean, Dea, Alexis, Michael and their spouses), 15 grandchildren, and eight great grandchildren.

DEAN A. SPANOS

Chairman of the Board

Under the leadership of Chairman of the Board Dean Spanos, the San Diego Chargers have become one of the NFL's most respected franchises. Spanos has provided critical direction and resources while building a winning, family environment that has led to consistency and success.

Over the past 11 years (2004-14), the Chargers won 113 games (playoffs included), including five AFC West championships (2004, 2006-09) and four playoff games. Only three teams won more games during that span.

This offseason Spanos handed over the reins of day-to-day leadership to his sons A.G. and John. Eldest son A.G. Spanos now serves as President-Business Operations while John Spanos is President-Football Operations. Dean remains atop the organization's hierarchy as chairman.

That transition in leadership comes soon after Spanos oversaw another key transition period in franchise history. In 2013 new leadership was added for the football team, hiring Tom Telesco and Mike McCoy to serve as the team's new general manager and head coach, respectively. The moves transformed the Chargers' front office from one of the oldest to the NFL's youngest and brought new energy and optimism to the organization and its fan base.

Spanos' leadership is felt throughout the National Football League as well as all Spanos corporate entities. As a member of the Management Council Executive Committee (CEC), he played an integral role in negotiating the NFL's current labor agreement prior to the 2011 season. He serves as chairman of the NFL's Business Ventures Committee, which has oversight regarding various league commercial activities, including consumer products, sponsorship, events, marketing and new business initiatives. He also serves on the League's International and Legislative Committees.

Spanos had served as president of the Chargers since early in 1994, the same year the team culminated its most memorable season in team history with an appearance in Super Bowl XXIX. In addition, he also serves as President of the A.G. Spanos Companies. Dean and his brother, Michael, oversee all construction operations nationwide.

Spanos' commitment to San Diego and the team is undeniable. He has dedicated 14 years and millions of dollars to develop a plan to give San Diegans a modern Super Bowl-quality stadium and secure a long-term home for their football team. The reason for this bond: Dean's family has proudly called San Diego home for 31 years.

TRADITION OF GIVING

The Spanos family is recognized as one of pro football's most philanthropic families and one of Southern California's most active and caring contributors. Their financial and emotional support of youth sports and education in San Diego is unmatched.

The Chargers Community Foundation and the Spanos family have provided more than $12 million to support a wide range of services and resources for programs directly affecting youth and families in San Diego County. In 1999, Spanos created the Foundation's largest ongoing program, Chargers Champions, which has provided more than $5 million in direct assistance to San Diego County schools, teachers and students. The program provides grants to improve fitness, nutrition and athletic programs on area campuses.

In 2014 Spanos pledged $500,000 to the University of California-San Diego to upgrade and expand the existing Alex G. Spanos Training Facility, recently renamed the Alex G. Spanos Athletic Performance Center. UCSD is the Chargers' former training camp home and this gift raises the value of the family's support of the institution to more than $1.6 million.

In 2012 following the passing of former Chargers linebacker Junior Seau, Dean and his wife Susie brought a shocked team and community together when they hosted a "Celebration of Life" for Seau in Qualcomm Stadium. The event was seen and heard live by more than 150,000 San Diegans and made it possible for a grieving community to heal and pay tribute to one of San Diego's native sons.

Although such examples of Spanos' largesse are too many to count, a number stand out. In 2000, local student-athletes received a giant boost when the Spanos family and Chargers Community Foundation supplied the initial funding to organize the first-ever freshman football and girls volleyball programs in the 16 San Diego City high schools. The Chargers are the top supporter of the California Interscholastic Federation's (CIF) annual high school football championship games. And the Alex Spanos All-Star Classic, the longest-running high school all-star football game in California, celebrated its 25th anniversary in 2015.

This devotion to youth football led the national Pop Warner organization to name the Chargers its 2015 NFL Team of the Year. The Chargers are the first NFL team to receive the honor twice: 2007 and 2015.

When wildfires ravaged San Diego County in 2003 and again in 2007, Spanos made identical $1 million donations to aid affected families and the recovery effort.

Spanos also is a staunch supporter of San Diego's police, fire and sheriff's departments. Critical Communications Centers have been upgraded and mobile command units for the police department have been purchased while their financial support enabled local agencies to purchase wildfire fighting gear as well as other fire-fighting equipment.

Spanos has been a top contributor to Rady Children's Hospital, the San Diego Blood Bank, San Diego State University's Campanile Foundation, University of San Diego, STAR/PAL, the San Diego Police Foundation, the San Diego Hall of Champions and the San Diego High School Sports Association.

Dean and his father Alex Spanos secured Super Bowl XXXII (1998) and Super Bowl XXXVII (2003) for the City of San Diego, each bringing an estimated windfall of more than $300 million to the San Diego economy.

COMMUNITY HONORS

Honors for their generosity come frequently to Dean and Susie.

In 2014, the Spanos family received the Outstanding Community Service Award among all family-owned businesses by the San Diego Business Journal.

The Make-A-Wish Foundation presented the team with its Wish-Granting Partner of the Year Award while the California State Athletic Director's Association presented the Chargers with its President's Merit Award, both in 2012. The Rotary Club of San Diego also presented Spanos and the Chargers organization with its prestigious Heilbron Award, given to companies that "exemplify the pay it forward spirit – that give of themselves and their professional expertise to advance the well-being and success of others in the community."

They received the 2012 Herb Klein Spirit of San Diego Award from the San Diego Regional Chamber of Commerce at the organization's annual awards dinner. In 2011 the Salvation Army recognized Spanos and the Chargers' dedication to helping San Diego's homeless citizens during their annual Golden Bells ceremony.

In 2010, the Association of Fundraising Professionals recognized Spanos and the Chargers as San Diego's Outstanding Philanthropic Corporation, one of the most prestigious awards for community service.

The American Diabetes Association honored Spanos at its annual Fathers of the Year Dinner in 2010. In 2007, the local Salvation Army named Dean and Susie as their Most Valuable Philanthropists.

In 2006 President George W. Bush appointed Spanos as a Board of Trustees member of the John F. Kennedy Center for the Performing Arts. That same year he was the honored recipient of the Golden Achievement Award from the Boys & Girls Clubs of San Diego and Junior Achievement of San Diego inducted him into its Hall of Fame for his community leadership and specifically for his support of youth education initiatives.

The Warner Award, the top honor of the national Pop Warner football organization, was bestowed on him for his commitment to youth football and its Little Scholars education initiative in 2005. The San Diego Chapter of the National Football Foundation also presented Spanos with its highest honor, the Distinguished American Award. In 2004, the Police Historical Society presented him with their first Cota Award for community philanthropy and support of law enforcement. Dean and Susie received the Harold Leventhal Community Service Award in 2003, the top national award of the Huntington's Disease Society of America.

Spanos has the unique distinction of being a second-generation recipient of the renowned Ellis Island Medal of Honor, so honored in 2002, 16 years after his father was similarly honored. He was also inducted into the DeMolay International Alumni Hall of Fame in 2002. DeMolay International is an organization dedicated to preparing young men to lead successful and productive lives.

In 2001, the San Diego Hall of Champions Sports Museum presented Dean and Susie with its Community Champions Award, the Hall's most distinguished award.

BUSINESSMAN AND FAMILY MAN

Dean Alexander Spanos was born in Stockton, California. He earned varsity letters in football and golf at Lincoln High School in Stockton. Dean later received Lincoln High School's Hall of Fame Award, which honors alumni whose contributions and accomplishments are representative of the school. He was recognized for his achievements in the areas of business and athletics. Spanos continued his golfing career at the University of the Pacific in Stockton, graduating in 1972 with a degree in business administration. He maintains close ties with his alma mater, having served as a regent at the university.

An avid golfer since his college years, Dean has been on the winning team in five Pro-Am tournaments, including back-to-back wins in 1990 at the Bob Hope Chrysler Classic and the AT&T National Pro-Am at Pebble Beach with partner Hubert Green. He successfully defended his title at the Hope Classic in 1991. Spanos' first win came with Green at the 1985 Bing Crosby Pro-Am at Pebble Beach, where he was awarded the "Most Valuable Amateur" trophy for supplying the most help to his professional partner. Later that year, his second win came in the 1985 Senior Players Reunion Pro-Am in Dallas, where he teamed with San Diego native Billy Casper.

Susie received the prestigious Celebration of Life Award in 2011 from the American Cancer Society. She is a spokeswoman for the NFL's cancer campaign and is a breast cancer survivor. She also was honored as a "Woman of Dedication" by the Salvation Army in 2001 and has been named the Woman of the Year by the San Diego Leukemia Society for her philanthropic work in the community.

Susie works with and serves on the boards of many charitable organizations in San Diego, including the San Diego Women's Foundation. She is on the board of the Village Garden Club of La Jolla and an advisory member of Las Patronas, one of San Diego's leading non-profit organizations. Susie has been a driving force in supporting the San Diego Blood Bank and its umbilical cord blood program, helping the Chargers' annual blood drive become one of the most successful in the nation.

Dean and Susie have resided in La Jolla since moving their family to San Diego in 1984.

EXECUTIVE STAFF

CHERI PEDERSEN
Executive Assistant to the Chairman

MICHAEL A. SPANOS

Vice Chairman

Michael A. Spanos is vice chairman of the Chargers. In that capacity, he assists in financial and management matters pertaining to the team. Michael joins his brother – Chairman of the Board Dean Spanos – in steering the direction of the organization, including the on-going effort to bring a new stadium to the San Diego region.

As president of the A.G. Spanos Companies, Michael is responsible for the company's planning and development activities around the country. He monitors and oversees the office divisions in states where the company builds and develops. His responsibilities also extend to the areas of property management, land acquisition and preparation of all plans for future direction, growth and construction of the company's multi-family communities and land development activities. From the company headquarters in Stockton, Michael travels regularly across the country to monitor and manage building projects.

Born in Stockton, California, he attended Lincoln High School and graduated from the University of the Pacific, with a bachelor's degree in business administration. In 1989, Michael was appointed to the Board of Regents at the University of the Pacific, where he served for five years. Michael continues to contribute both his time and resources to the development and support of charitable projects involving youth sports and education. He and his wife, Helen, have five children and reside in Stockton.

A.G. SPANOS

President — Business Operations

A.G. Spanos was named President—Business Operations for the Chargers in May 2015. He oversees all day-to-day business operations of the organization, including marketing, sales, public relations, digital media and community relations. He also represents the organization at all NFL and ownership meetings.

Prior to being named president, Spanos had served as executive vice president—chief executive officer since July 2011. This followed three years as executive vice president—executive officer (2008-10) and five seasons as director of marketing programs and business development (2003-07).

Witnessing the Chargers enjoy success on the field has always been the number-one goal for Spanos and that includes helping the franchise establish an undeniable home-field advantage. Over the last decade (2005-14), only four teams have more total wins than the Chargers and only six teams have more home wins. The fans are huge part of this success.

Spanos leads with the belief that Season Ticket Members are the backbone of the organization. Under his direction, the Chargers added more value and access that eventually led to a rebranding of the team's most loyal fans – Season Ticket Members – formerly known as season ticket holders. Key benefits include the addition of dedicated service representatives, unique opportunities for facility and stadium tours, exclusive training camp visits, an upgraded and more transparent seat relocation program, a more flexible payment schedule and much more. As a result, in 2015, the Chargers will see their season ticket base increase for the second consecutive year.

In an effort to quench Chargers fans' unending thirst for information about their team, Spanos created the organization's first digital media department in 2012. The department has been instrumental in providing an endless supply of unique content available only on the team's official website, Chargers.com, while expanding the Chargers' social media footprint. Recognizing the benefits of producing web and television content in-house, Spanos led the effort to construct a new television and editing studio at a recently-expanded Chargers Park.

Spanos sits on the Chargers Champions leadership team helping select schools for the school grant program founded by his grandfather, Alex Spanos. Since its inception in 2000, Chargers Champions has provided more than $4 million to assist San Diego schools, teachers and students. Each year the Chargers Champions School Grant Program allows public and private schools within San Diego County to apply for badly-needed funding for physical fitness, nutrition and athletic programs on their campuses. The Chargers Champions program is the cornerstone of a community relations portfolio that includes supporting hundreds of charitable organizations and causes during the year.

Outside the office, Spanos serves on the Executive Committee and the Board of Directors for the San Diego Hall of Champions Sports Museum. He also serves on the Board of Directors for the San Diego Regional Chamber of Commerce and is an active member of the Young Presidents Organization (YPO).

Spanos attended La Jolla Country Day School in La Jolla, Calif., lettering in football and basketball. He played football as a freshman at Tufts University in Medford, Mass., before returning to California to continue his education at the University of Southern California, earning a bachelor's degree in marketing from the Marshall School of Business.

Spanos is the grandson of Owner Alex Spanos and he is the eldest son of Chairman Dean Spanos and his wife Susie. He and his wife, Kamri, have a son, Dean.

EXECUTIVE STAFF

YOLANDA TUCKER
Executive Assistant

JOHN SPANOS

President — Football Operations

John Spanos was named President—Football Operations for the Chargers in May 2015. He oversees all of the team's football operations, including player personnel, coaching, player finance and the salary cap, medical, equipment, video, player engagement and security. He also represents the team at all league and management council meetings.

Spanos began working for the Chargers in 1995. Originally, he worked summers as an assistant in football operations, and from 1998-00 he worked under the direction of Ed McGuire, who schooled him in contract negotiations and managing the salary cap.

In 2003, Spanos began working full-time as a scout. He methodically worked his way up through the organization before his career took a giant leap forward in 2013 when he was named executive vice president of football operations. This new position afforded him the opportunity to put his first big imprint on the organization, and he did just that as he was a key member of the selection committee responsible for the hiring of General Manager Tom Telesco and Head Coach Mike McCoy. The Chargers finished 9-7 in both 2013 and 2014. In 2013, the team returned to the playoffs for the first time since 2009 and won its first playoff game since 2008.

Drawing from his scouting experience, Spanos has seen his role in the NFL Draft grow exponentially since his ascension in 2013 and the results have been overwhelmingly positive. The team's 2013 draft yielded three key starters: tackle D.J. Fluker, linebacker Manti Te'o, and wide receiver and Pepsi Next NFL Rookie of the Year Keenan Allen. The 2014 draft class saw four of the six players the Chargers selected make the team's opening day roster, and the 2015 class is full of promising talent, headlined by running back Melvin Gordon, winner of the 2014 Doak Walker Award as the nation's top running back, and runner up for the 2014 Heisman Trophy.

The 2015 season will mark Spanos' 20th year in the NFL and his 17th with the team.

His previous assignments within the organization include stints as a pro and college scout (2003-05), assistant director of college scouting (2006-07) and director of college scouting (2008-12). In addition to the draft, his keen eye for talent has helped the Chargers discover several undrafted free agents who have made a big impact on the field. Running back Branden Oliver, the team's leading rusher in 2014, is a prime example. And Spanos' first year as a full-time scout in 2003 coincided with the arrival of yet another undrafted free agent who's carved out a pretty solid NFL career, eight-time Pro Bowl tight end Antonio Gates.

From 2001-03, Spanos served two stints in the NFL's Management Council office in New York. In 2008, he further expanded his business acumen when he was among a select list of NFL executives invited to participate in the NFL's Executive Education Program at the Stanford Business School in Palo Alto, California.

Spanos continues to work closely with McGuire. They have managed the salary cap and retained some of the team's top players. This includes negotiating lengthy contract extensions for several current and former All-Pro players, including Gates, quarterback Philip Rivers, center Nick Hardwick, running back LaDainian Tomlinson, and safety and special teams ace Darrell Stuckey.

Staying true to his scouting roots, Spanos serves on the board of directors for National Football Scouting. Locally, he serves on the Athletics Board at the University of California-San Diego (UCSD).

In June 2010, Spanos was named one of the "Top 40 Under 40" Greek-Americans by Greek America Magazine. The acknowledgment came in recognition of his achievements in both business and community leadership.

Spanos was born in Stockton, California. He attended The Bishop's School in La Jolla where he lettered in football as a wide receiver and defensive back. He also lettered in golf and basketball, and was a member of three CIF championship teams. After Bishop's, Spanos attended Wake Forest University, graduating with a degree in business.

John and his wife Jodie reside in La Jolla.

ED MCGUIRE

Executive Vice President of Football Administration— Player Finance

Now in his 28th NFL season and 18th with the Chargers, Ed McGuire has enjoyed a steady ascent since joining the team in 1998. He most recently was named Executive Vice President of Football Administration—Player Finance in January 2013. McGuire serves as the club's chief negotiator and manages the salary cap, while overseeing compliance of NFL and Collective Bargaining Agreement rules. Throughout his tenure with the Chargers, McGuire has negotiated a number of long-term contracts and contract extensions. In 2004, he negotiated an eight-year contract extension for 2006 NFL MVP and two-time NFL rushing champion, LaDainian Tomlinson. largest player contract negotiated in team history. And more recently, McGuire has negotiated new contracts and extensions for several key players, including Corey Liuget, King Dunlap, Brandon Flowers, Darrell Stuckey and Donald Butler.

TOM TELESKO

General Manager

21st NFL Season, 3rd season with Chargers

Tom Telesco will serve his third season as general manager of the Chargers in 2015.

In his first two seasons, the Bolts won 19 games, including the franchise's first postseason victory since 2008 as well as a win over the defending Super Bowl champion Seattle Seahawks in 2014.

Telesco was hired by the Chargers in January 2013. Forty years old at the time of his hiring, he became the youngest general manager in team history.

Immediately following his hire, Telesco was part of the committee responsible for hiring Mike McCoy as the team's head coach. Telesco then shifted his attention toward the roster and he helped the Chargers return to the playoffs in 2013 with a roster that featured 25 players who joined the team prior to or during the season.

Telesco made several notable free agent acquisitions in 2013, including running back Danny Woodhead, tackle King Dunlap and outside linebacker Dwight Freeney, and he delivered even more talent to San Diego with an outstanding 2013 draft. That class featured three prominent starters: offensive lineman D.J. Fluker, inside linebacker Manti Te'o, and wide receiver and 2013 Pepsi Next NFL Rookie of the Year Keenan Allen.

Telesco's second draft class in 2014 was equally as impressive. The team's first four picks all made the opening day roster, and after the draft, the Chargers found another gem in University of Buffalo running back Branden Oliver, who ended 2014 as the team's leading rusher. Also in 2014, Telesco signed free agent cornerback Brandon Flowers from Kansas City, and proving that he'd leave no stone unturned, he signed wide receiver and Canadian Football League import Dontrelle Inman, who emerged late in the year and helped the Chargers steal a key late-season win in San Francisco.

A native of Buffalo, New York, Telesco prepped at St. Francis High School in Athol Springs, N.Y. One of his teammates at St. Francis was Jacksonville Jaguars general manager David Caldwell. Days prior to Super Bowl XLVIII in January 2014, which was co-hosted by New York and New Jersey, Telesco and Caldwell were recognized for their accomplishments on the floor of the New York State Senate by Senator Timothy Kennedy.

After graduating from St. Francis, Telesco played wide receiver at John Carroll University in Ohio. He was a starter on the Blue Streaks' 1994 Ohio Athletic Conference Championship team, and two of his teammates at John Carroll were Chris and Brian Polian, sons of Bill Polian, a 2015 inductee into the Pro Football Hall of Fame.

While attending John Carroll, Telesco spent four summers (1991-94) as a training camp intern with the Buffalo Bills. At that time, the elder Polian was the Bills' general manager. Polian left Buffalo for Carolina in 1994 and after Telesco graduated from John Carroll with a degree in business management in 1995, Polian hired him to work in the Panthers' scouting department. Then in 1998, Telesco and Polian both moved on to Indianapolis, where Telesco would spend his next 15 NFL seasons as a college scout, pro scout, director of pro scouting, director of player personnel and vice president of football operations. Telesco worked in Indianapolis during Peyton Manning's entire career with the Colts and he was later part of the decision-making process that brought Andrew Luck to the Colts with the first pick of the 2012 NFL Draft. Telesco also was involved in Colts drafts that featured four-time Pro Bowl running back Edgerrin James, five-time Pro Bowl wide receiver Reggie Wayne, and Freeney, a seven-time Pro Bowler as a Colt.

Telesco's tenure in Indianapolis was one of the most successful eras in franchise history. The Colts played in two Super Bowls, including a victory over Chicago in Super Bowl XLI. From 1998-2012, they won 154 regular season games, eight division titles and they appeared in the playoffs 12 times. Indianapolis set an NFL record with 12 or more wins in seven consecutive seasons and they won an NFL record 23 straight regular-season games during the 2008-09 seasons. And their 115 regular-season wins from 2000-09 set an NFL record for wins in a decade.

In March 2015, Telesco was invited to be a presenter at the NFL's Career Development Symposium in Arizona. The program, attended by nearly 70 coaches and front office executives, was designed to engage aspiring head coach and general manager candidates. Telesco was one of only two active general managers invited to address participants at the symposium.

Telesco and his wife, Larah, have a daughter, Elena, and two sons, Thomas and Nicholas.

MIKE MCCOY

Head Coach

18th NFL Season, 3rd season with Chargers

With a pair of 9-7 records and a playoff win in the first two seasons of Mike McCoy's stewardship in San Diego, the Chargers are in good hands with the innovative head coach at the helm.

Hired Jan. 15, 2013 as the 15th head coach in team history, McCoy led the Chargers to the playoffs in his first season. At the time of his hiring, McCoy, then 41, was the second-youngest head coach in the NFL and the second-youngest in team history. The Bolts went 9-7 and won four straight and five of their last six to close out the regular season, including a thrilling season-ending overtime win against Kansas City that vaulted the Chargers into the postseason. During that stretch, the Chargers defeated Kansas City twice, and Denver and Oakland once each to finish 4-2 in the AFC West. McCoy then led the Chargers to a Wild Card Playoff win in Cincinnati for the franchise's first playoff victory since 2008. The Chargers' playoff appearance in 2013 marked the organization's first since 2009 and McCoy joined Sid Gillman (1960), Don Coryell (1979 – Coryell's first full season), Bobby Ross (1992) and Norv Turner (2007) as the only coaches in team history to lead the Bolts to the playoffs in their first season. Then with his team's win over the Bengals, McCoy became only the third head coach (Ross and Turner) to win his first playoff game.

McCoy led the Chargers to nine wins again in 2014. The Chargers defeated the defending Super Bowl champion Seattle Seahawks, they posted a 31-0 shutout win over the New York Jets, and the team showed its resiliency late in the season, overcoming double-digit deficits to beat Baltimore and San Francisco. When the Chargers won in Baltimore in November, they became the first West Coast team to win a game in the Charm City in 11 tries.

McCoy came to the Chargers from Denver, where he spent the 2009-12 seasons as the Broncos' offensive coordinator. In 2012, the Broncos won 13 games, second-most in a season in franchise history, and captured the No. 1 overall seed in the AFC playoffs. Peyton Manning threw a then-team-record 37 touchdown passes, while Demaryius Thomas and Eric Decker combined to become the youngest receiving duo in NFL history to top 1,000 yards and 10 touchdowns.

A year earlier in 2011, McCoy had a hand in a storybook season in Denver as he helped the Broncos reach the divisional playoffs after winning their first AFC West title since 2005. The Broncos upset Pittsburgh in the Wild Card Playoffs with Tim Tebow throwing an 80-yard game-winning touchdown pass to Thomas on the first play of overtime. That season, McCoy completely revamped Denver's offense into a read-option attack that meshed with Tebow's playing style. The Broncos led the NFL in 2011 with a franchise-record 2,632 yards on the ground.

McCoy started in Denver in 2009 as the Broncos' offensive coordinator and quarterbacks coach. In his first season, Kyle Orton set career highs in every major passing category, while wide receiver Brandon Marshall and left tackle Ryan Clady were selected to the Pro Bowl. Clady was also named All-Pro.

A native of Novato, Calif., McCoy was the starting quarterback for two years at San Marin High School, along with being a standout on the basketball court and baseball field. He played quarterback at Long Beach State for the legendary George Allen, and then at the University of Utah after Allen passed and the 49ers disbanded their football program. Upon graduating from Utah, McCoy signed with the NFL's Broncos as an undrafted free agent in 1995. After being cut by Denver, he spent his rookie season on Green Bay's practice squad, followed by stops with the Amsterdam Admirals of NFL Europe, the San Francisco 49ers, Philadelphia Eagles and Seattle Seahawks. McCoy concluded his playing career in 1999 with the CFL's Calgary Stampeders, a Grey Cup finalist. In 2014, he was inducted into the Marin Athletic Foundation Hall of Fame.

McCoy transitioned into coaching in 2000, joining the Carolina Panthers as an offensive assistant. Just four weeks into his first season with the Panthers, he was elevated to quarterbacks coach after the team's position coach stepped down. McCoy would go on to spend nine seasons in Carolina, serving as wide receivers coach (2001), quarterbacks coach (2002-08) and passing game coordinator (2007-08). Led by quarterbacks Steve Beuerlein and Jake Delhomme, Carolina made three playoff appearances, won two division titles, went to two NFC Championship Games and played in Super Bowl XXXVIII (2003).

McCoy did some of his best coaching in Carolina in 2007 when the Panthers won a franchise-best 12 games and earned a first-round bye in the playoffs. Injuries forced the Panthers to start four different quarterbacks (none for more than three games in a row) and Carolina became the first NFL team in 10 years to win at least one game with four different starters at quarterback (Delhomme, David Carr, Matt Moore and Vinny Testaverde).

McCoy and his wife, Kellie, have two children, a daughter, Liv, and a son, Luke.

ASSISTANT COACHES

JOHN PAGANO

Defensive Coordinator
20th NFL Season
14th season with Chargers

The longest-tenured assistant on the Chargers' coaching staff, 2015 will mark Pagano's 14th season with the Chargers and his fourth as defensive coordinator.

The Chargers ranked ninth in the NFL in total defense and fourth in pass defense in 2014. It marked the second time in three years under Pagano that the Bolts ranked in the top 10 in total defense and their pass defense ranking was the unit's highest on his watch. Also in 2014, the Chargers ranked ninth in the NFL in scoring defense during the first eight games of the season, and they ranked fourth in the league in red zone defense over the last eight games.

There were several noteworthy performances by San Diego's defense in 2014, including a shutout victory against the New York Jets. The Chargers held three different teams to 10 points or less, their most in a season since 2010. From Sept. 14-Oct. 5, the Chargers went four games without allowing a point in the fourth quarter, the second-longest stretch in team history. And on Sept. 28 and Oct. 5, the Chargers held Jacksonville and the Jets scoreless in the second halves of both games, marking the first time the Chargers shut out consecutive opponents in the second half since 2006.

During the Chargers' run to the Divisional Playoffs in 2013, Pagano's defense turned in a number of stellar performances, highlighted by a team-record streak of 12 consecutive quarters without allowing an offensive touchdown. Late in the season, San Diego's defense got stingy with the football, recording a season-high four takeaways against Cincinnati in the wild card round and two more against Denver in the divisional round. In total, the Chargers recorded 16 takeaways in the last eight games of the year (playoffs included), more than double the team's total in the first 11 games. The Chargers won four of five in December to qualify for the playoffs and that month, the Chargers surrendered just 315.8 yards per game, sixth-lowest in the NFL. The Bolts also got stingy on the scoreboard, giving up just 17.6 points per game in December, third-fewest in the NFL. And the Bolts also got down to business on third downs, giving up just 37.5 percent of opponent third-down conversions in December. That trend continued into the playoffs as the Bolts held the Bengals to just 10 points and 3-of-12 on third downs in their wild card win.

Pagano made an immediate impression in his first season as defensive coordinator in 2012 as the Chargers ranked ninth in total defense and sixth in run defense. The Chargers recorded 38 sacks, including a team-record-tying 11 during a Dec. road win against the New York Jets. The Bolts scored seven defensive touchdowns (five interceptions and two fumbles), second-most in the NFL and two shy of the team record of nine set in 1961.

Pagano originally joined the Chargers in 2002 as the team's quality control coach for the defense and he moved his way up the ranks. He began as an assistant linebackers coach before moving to outside linebackers and then ultimately to linebackers coach before moving into the coordinator's role in 2012. In 2010, the Chargers had the NFL's No. 1 ranked defense and the squad was second in the league in sacks. And from 2005-11 when Pagano worked with the team's linebackers, a player from that group led the team in tackles and sacks every season. One of Pagano's star pupils was three-time Pro Bowl outside linebacker Shawne Merriman, the NFL's Defensive Rookie of the Year in 2005 and the NFL's leader in sacks in 2006.

A native of Boulder, Colo., Pagano was an all-state linebacker at Fairview High School. He played at Mesa State from 1985-88, earning a degree in business marketing.

John's older brother, Chuck, is the head coach of the Indianapolis Colts. Both John and Chuck played for their father, Sam, at Fairview High. Sam spent 26 years as the head coach at Fairview, winning three state titles, and he also coached internationally in Taiwan, Germany, France and Italy.

For the last three years, Pagano has served as a co-host of the Flavors of the Gaslamp. It's an event that raises funds and awareness for Multiple Sclerosis. Pagano shares hosting duties with former NFL player Eric Allen.

Pagano and wife, Kimberly, have two sons, Jagger and Brody.

FRANK REICH

Offensive Coordinator
24th NFL Season
3rd season with Chargers

The 2014 season was Frank Reich's first as an NFL offensive coordinator. With Reich calling the signals, the Chargers racked up nearly 4,300 yards through the air and more than 1,350 on the ground.

Reich did an outstanding job of spreading out the offensive yards and touches. The Chargers were the only team in the NFL to feature four players with at least 778 yards receiving and four touchdown catches, and it marked the first time in franchise history that four different players reached those totals in a season. The Chargers also had four receivers finish the season with more than 50 catches for just the fourth time in team annals. And with Reich calling the offensive plays, quarterback Philip Rivers completed a franchise-record 379 passes while throwing 31 touchdown passes.

Reich's rapid ascent up the coaching ladder was well-deserved considering the work he did as quarterbacks coach in 2013. Working with Reich, Rivers was selected for the Pro Bowl after completing a team-record and NFL-leading 69.5 pct. of his passes for 4,478 yards, 32 touchdowns and just 11 interceptions for a career and team-record-tying passer rating of 105.5. Rivers also set the then-team mark for single-season completions (378) and he ended the regular season having thrown a touchdown in 20 straight games, tied for the second-longest streak in team history. This was the same quarterback who threw 83 touchdowns and 48 interceptions over the previous three seasons. Rivers' 2013 passer rating was nearly 10 points higher than

Special Teams Coordinator
25th NFL Season
3rd season with Chargers

Set to embark on his third season in San Diego, the Chargers' special teams are in capable hands with Spencer.

In 2014, the Chargers ranked eighth in the NFL in kickoff coverage and his top performers included Darrell Stuckey, who played in his first Pro Bowl as a kick-coverage specialist. Spencer also got a solid year out of Nick Novak, who hit 22 of his 26 field goal tries, and punter Mike Scifres, who averaged 45.7 yards per attempt. Rookie Chris Davis also impressed as he averaged 25.1 yards on kickoff returns.

During Spencer's first year with the Bolts in 2013, the team enjoyed a playoff season. Scifres went the first nine games without a touchback and he landed 30 of his 56 punts (53.6 pct.) inside the 20, the highest percentage in the NFL. Novak hit a team-record-tying 34 field goals while finishing the year 34-of-37 for a new team record 91.9 percent conversion rate. And the Chargers blocked two field his career rating of 96.0 and his completion percentage was more than five percentage points higher than his 64.4 career ledger. Rivers also had one of his best post-seasons as he continued to complete passes at a blistering rate (69.8 pct.), going 30 of 43 for 345 yards with three touchdowns and no interceptions for a 116.9 passer rating.

A native of Freeport, N.Y., Reich grew up in Lebanon, Pa., where his father was a high school coach. Reich played collegiately at the University of Maryland where he engineered the greatest comeback win in college football history. During his senior season in 1984, Reich led the Terrapins to a 42-40 win over the University of Miami in a game that Maryland at one point trailed 31-0. At the time, it was the largest deficit ever overcome in a college game. A year later, the Buffalo Bills selected Reich in the third round of the 1985 NFL Draft. He spent 10 seasons (1985-94) in Buffalo and in the 1992 NFL playoffs he added to his repertoire by leading the greatest comeback in NFL history. A backup to Jim Kelly with the Bills, Reich was called on to start the Bills' AFC Wild Card Playoff game against Houston in Jan. 1993 for an injured Kelly. Reich rallied the Bills from a 35-3 deficit in the third quarter to a 41-38 win over the Oilers that to this day is still the greatest comeback in NFL history.

After Buffalo, Reich spent one season in Carolina (1995), one with the New York Jets (1996), and two with Detroit (1997-98) before retiring in 1998.

In 2006, Reich accepted a coaching internship with Indianapolis. He spent two seasons (2006-07) as an intern before the Colts promoted him to offensive assistant in 2008, working with the wide receivers and quarterbacks. Reich had a talented cast that included Super Bowl MVP and perennial Pro Bowl quarterback Peyton Manning, and Pro Bowl wide receiver Reggie Wayne. Reich remained in that role in Indianapolis until 2012 when he moved to Arizona and became the wide receivers coach for the Cardinals where he worked with Pro Bowl pass-catcher Larry Fitzgerald.

Reich and his wife, Linda, have three children. His brother, Joe, is the head coach at Wingate (N.C.) University.

goals in one game. They were the team's first field goal blocks in 11 years.

The NFL's Special Teams Coach of the Year in 2003 as chosen by his peers, Spencer has spent the last 17 seasons coaching special teams in Indianapolis, Pittsburgh, Arizona and San Diego. He won a Super Bowl with Pittsburgh in 2005 (Super Bowl XL) and an NFC Championship with Arizona in '08. In Indianapolis, Terrence Wilkins returned two punts and a kickoff for touchdowns and was selected to a number of all-rookie teams. In Pittsburgh, Antwaan Randle-El set a team record with four punt returns for touchdowns during five seasons working with Spencer. And in Arizona, LaRod Stephens-Howling led the NFL with 1,542 kickoff return yards in 2010, including scoring returns of 102 and 96 yards, while Patrick Peterson tied the NFL record with four punt return touchdowns as a rookie. Peterson also became the first player in league history with four punt returns of 80 yards or longer, including a game-winning 99-yard punt return for a touchdown in overtime of a game against the St. Louis Rams that was the second-longest in NFL history.

A native of Queens, New York, Spencer played football and lacrosse at Springfield (Mass.) College. He earned his bachelor's degree from Springfield and a Master's from Cortland State in 1976. He began coaching as a graduate assistant at Cortland State in 1975 and then served as an assistant coach at Detroit Country Day High School from 1976-79. While at Country Day, Spencer struck up a friendship with Bill Belichick, who was then a quality control coach with the Detroit Lions. Years later that friendship would pay dividends as Belichick would recommend Spencer for the head coaching job at his alma mater, Wesleyan University. Spencer spent five years as the head coach at Wesleyan and in 1991 he landed his first NFL job with Cleveland when Belichick was the Browns' head coach and hired Spencer as a coaching assistant. To this day the two remain friends and once a year Spencer sends a thank you letter to Belichick for helping him begin his climb up the coaching ladder.

Spencer and his wife, Rosemarie, have two sons, Timothy and Jack.

JOE D'ALESSANDRIS

Offensive Line
8th NFL Season
3rd season with Chargers

A long-time college and NFL coach, D'Alessandris is a proven coach and teacher. He's helped shape the Chargers' offensive line into one of the league's best, despite having a roster that's been hit hard by injuries. Among the pupils under D'Alessandris' tutelage, King Dunlap has evolved into one of the NFL's top left tackles, while former first-round pick D.J. Fluker has become a top-flight right tackle.

In 2014, the Chargers' offensive line performed admirably, allowing only 37 sacks while protecting on 611 attempted passing plays. It did so despite missing two key performers. Starting center Nick Hardwick played just over a quarter of the team's season opener and spent the rest of the season on "Reserve-Injured" before retiring in February. Hardwick's loss started a run in which the Bolts were forced to start five different players at center, the most by any NFL team since the AFL-NFL merger. The line also was without starting right guard Jeromey Clary, who spent the entire season on the "Physically Unable to Perform" list before he too retired.

D'Alessandris' first Chargers season in 2013 followed a similar path as injuries forced the team to start seven different combinations of linemen, while playing a total of 17 different combinations on the line at various points of the season. Only seven times did the Bolts' five starting offensive linemen play an entire game together. Despite the revolving door up front, the Chargers made the playoffs by allowing just 30 sacks, tied for fourth-fewest in the league, and they only allowed 150 yards in sack losses, which was the second-lowest total in the NFL. The offensive line helped the team reach the postseason by blocking for more than 100 yards rushing in 12 of 16 regular-season games, including four straight and seven of the last eight to close out the campaign. That stretch included a regular-season-best 186 yards in the regular-season finale against Kansas City that vaulted the Bolts into the playoffs.

A native of Aliquippa, Pa., D'Alessandris spent his summers during college working in the city's steel mills before moving on to Western Carolina University where he earned four letters and started three years as a guard. Team MVP and a team captain as a senior, D'Alessandris graduated in 1977 and earned a master's degree from WCU two years later. While working toward his master's, he began coaching as a graduate assistant. That led to his first full-time job as the offensive line coach at Livingston University in 1979. D'Alessandris has spent the last 38 years as a coach and 2015 will mark his 37th year coaching the offensive line.

D'Alessandris landed his first NFL job with Kansas City in 2008. A year later, guard Brian Waters was voted to his first-career Pro Bowl and running back Jamaal Charles recorded his first-career 1,000 yard season. In 2010, he moved on to Buffalo and in 2011, the Bills led the NFL in fewest sacks allowed (23). It was the third-fewest in team history during a 16-game season.

D'Alessandris and his wife, Toni, have three children: Kelly, Emily and Anna. Anna is married to Allen Thomas and they have a son, Maxwell.

When D'Alessandris joined the Chargers in 2013, he started an event in which each of his offensive linemen takes a child on a holiday shopping spree. In 2014, the children were selected by STAR/PAL and the shopping spree took place at a local Macy's department store.

In 2010, D'Alessandris was inducted into the Beaver County (Pa.) Sports Hall of Fame and the Center High School Hall of Fame.

FRED GRAVES

Wide Receivers
14th NFL Season
3rd season with Chargers

Now in his 39th season coaching wide receivers both professionally and on the collegiate level, Graves has done a fantastic job coaching savvy veterans, while leaning on his experience to help cultivate young players like 2013 Pepsi Next NFL Rookie of the Year, Keenan Allen.

The Chargers performed a franchise-first in 2014 as they were the only team in the NFL to feature four players with at least 778 yards receiving and four touchdown catches. Three of the four (Allen, Malcom Floyd and Eddie Royal) were wide receivers. The fourth was tight end Antonio Gates. The same four players also finished the season with more than 50 catches each, just the fourth time in franchise history that a team had four 50-catch players. Allen, Floyd and Royal combined for 191 catches, 2,417 and 17 touchdowns in 2014.

Things didn't run so smoothly for Graves in his first season with the Bolts in 2013. Just two games in, Graves found himself without the services of the team's two returning receivers as Danario Alexander went down with a season-ending knee injury during training camp and Floyd suffered a season-ending neck injury during a Week 2 game in Philadelphia. Almost seamlessly however, Allen, the team's third-round in the 2013 draft, stepped in and began the path toward his rookie of the year season. Allen became Graves' star pupil and he set team rookie records for receptions (71) and yards (1,046), while also leading all NFL rookies in catches, yards and touchdown catches (eight). When it was all said and done, Allen earned a host of postseason honors, including two as NFL Rookie of the Year. Royal also enjoyed his finest season in San Diego working with Graves as he set a career-high and tied Allen for the team lead with eight touchdown catches.

A native of Los Angeles, Graves played halfback and split end at the University of Utah before embarking on a coaching career that spanned 26 years on the collegiate level, including 19 seasons at Utah. He played from 1969-71, leading the Utes with 45 catches as a senior and graduating with a degree in business. His wife, Michele, was an All-America pitcher for the Utes, who won 64 games during a career that included a perfect game against rival BYU and a trip to the College World Series in 1985.

Graves landed his first NFL job with Buffalo in 2001. There, Eric Moulds and Peerless Price both posted 1,000-yard seasons and Moulds recorded the first 100-catch season in franchise history. In 2002, Moulds, Price and rookie Josh Reed combined to catch 231 passes for 3,053 yards and 21 scores. Graves departed Buffalo after the 2003 season and spent a year each in Cleveland and Detroit before taking a year off from coaching in 2006. He returned with Tennessee in 2007 and spent four seasons with the Titans. Carolina (2011-12) was his last stop prior to joining the Chargers. There, Steve Smith caught 152 passes for 2,568 yards and 11 touchdowns in two seasons with Graves and was named to the Pro Bowl in 2011.

Graves and Michele have a daughter, Amber, a son, Marcus, and two grandchildren, Tenille and Isaiah.

DON JOHNSON

Defensive Line
11th NFL Season
7th season with Chargers

Now in his seventh season as the Chargers' defensive line coach, Johnson has done a masterful job in developing young players. One such example is defensive tackle Corey Liuget, the team's first-round pick from 2011, who appears to be on the cusp of earning All-Pro recognition.

Last season, Liuget led the entire team in sacks, tackles for loss and quarterback pressures, while leading the defensive line in quarterback hits and forced fumbles (tie). That effort followed a 2013 season in which he led the team in sacks, tackles for loss, pressures and quarterback hits.

A Newark, N.J. native, Johnson played linebacker at Butler Community College and Jersey City State in the mid-1970s. He earned a tryout with the New York Jets and later played for the USFL's New Jersey Generals. Johnson segued into coaching in 1976, spending seven seasons at Santa Ana Valley High School outside Los Angeles before returning to his alma mater to coach linebackers in 1984. Johnson spent a total of 28 seasons on the prep and collegiate levels and twice he participated in the NFL's Minority Intern Coaching Program with the San Francisco 49ers in 1997 and '98.

Johnson spent the 2000-04 seasons at UCLA where he coached former Chargers defensive end Dave Ball, who was named the ABC-Chevrolet National Defensive Player of the Year in 2003 after leading the nation in sacks.

Johnson landed his first full-time NFL job with Chicago in 2005. He was a mentor to two-time Pro Bowl defensive tackle Tommie Harris, who later played for the Chargers. Harris helped the Bears to the 2006 NFC title and a berth in Super Bowl XL1.

Johnson spent two seasons in Chicago and two in Oakland before joining the Chargers in 2009. In just his second season in San Diego (2010), Johnson's group helped the Chargers lead the NFL in total defense, while ranking second in sacks and fourth in run defense. Defensive tackle Antonio Garay had a breakout season under Johnson, earning Pro Bowl alternate recognition after setting career highs and leading the defensive line in tackles, sacks, tackles for loss and quarterback hits.

Johnson has 26 years of experience as a high school and college basketball official, including eight at the NCAA Division I level. He was the president of the Orange County (Calif.) Basketball Officials Association for four years and the California Basketball Officials Association for two.

KENT JOHNSTON

Strength & Conditioning
23rd NFL Season
3rd season with Chargers

Johnston joined the Chargers in 2013 after spending three seasons leading the strength and conditioning program for the Cleveland Browns.

He began his NFL career with the Tampa Bay Buccaneers in 1987. Johnston later spent seven seasons in Green Bay (1992-98), during which time the Packers won three NFC Central titles, went to the playoffs six times and played in two Super Bowls, including a victory in Super Bowl XXXI.

In 1999, Johnston followed former Packers head coach

Mike Holmgren to Seattle, where he spent five seasons (1999-03), while the Seahawks made two playoff appearances. Johnston worked two years as the strength and conditioning coach at the University of Alabama (2004-05) before leaving football to work in the non-profit and business sectors. In 2010, he returned to the NFL with the Browns.

A native of Mexia, Texas, Johnston graduated from Stephen F. Austin University and he earned a master's in physical education from Alabama in 1984. He began coaching high school football in Teague, Texas in 1978 and continued to coach in high school and college, including a four-year stint at Alabama from 1983-86.

In 1997, Johnston was named the Strength and Conditioning Coach of the Year by the Professional Football Strength and Conditioning Coaches Society. In 2005, he was inducted into the Strength and Conditioning Hall of Fame in York, Pa.,

PETE METZELAARS

Tight Ends
27th NFL Season
2nd season with Chargers

In his first season as the tight ends coach, Pete Metzelaars couldn't ask for much better of a season from the team's future Hall of Famer, Antonio Gates.

Gates led the team in touchdown catches (12), while ranking second in catches and yards, and in the 2014 season finale, he became just the fourth tight end in NFL history to surpass 10,000 career receiving yards.

Metzelaars himself is a former NFL tight end. A third-round pick by Seattle in 1982 (75th overall), he played a total of 16 seasons for the Seahawks (1982-84), Buffalo Bills (1985-94), Carolina Panthers (1995) and Detroit Lions (1996-97). During 10 seasons with the Bills, he played in four Super Bowls (XXV, XXVI, XXVII and XXVIII). Metzelaars retired after the 1997 season having played in 235 career games, which at the time was the most by a tight end in NFL history, including a stretch of 169 consecutive games from 1984-95. His final career totals included 383 catches for 3,686 yards and 29 touchdowns. Metzelaars caught a touchdown pass in Super Bowl XXVI against Washington and in 1995, he caught the first touchdown pass in Carolina Panthers history. Metzelaars' career honors included an all-rookie selection with Seattle in 1982 along with being named to Buffalo's 50th Anniversary All-Time Team in 2009. He was also selected as a Pro Bowl alternate three times during his career.

Metzelaars moved into coaching immediately after retiring as a player. He began as the offensive coordinator at Charlotte Christian School in 1998. In 2003, he became an offensive assistant coach at Wingate (N.C.) University, while also completing a training camp internship with the Indianapolis Colts and an offseason stint with NFL Europe's Barcelona Dragons. In 2004, Metzelaars joined the Colts full-time as an offensive quality control coach and spent eight seasons there, including four in quality control, two as assistant offensive line coach and two as the primary offensive line coach. In 2010, the Colts allowed just 16 sacks, tied for the fewest in the NFL. Their ratio of just one sack allowed for every 43.4 pass attempts was the second-best in franchise history. Metzelaars tenure in Indianapolis ended in 2011 and he spent the 2012 season coaching tight ends for the Buffalo Bills.

A native of Three Rivers, Michigan, Metzelaars prepped at Portage (Mich.) Central High School. He played collegiately at Wabash College in Crawfordsville, Indiana, competing on an undefeated football team, while also helping lead the Little Giants' basketball team to a NCAA Division-III national championship. He earned a degree in economics at Wabash where he is a member of the school's athletic hall of fame. In 2011, he was inducted into the Academic All-American Hall of Fame.

Metzelaars and his wife, Barbara, have two sons: Anthony and Jonathan.

RON MILUS

Secondary
16th NFL Season
3rd season with Chargers

Coming off a season in which they ranked fourth in the NFL in pass defense, the Chargers are in good hands with Ron Milus heading up the secondary.

In 2014, safety Eric Weddle was voted to his second-straight Pro Bowl along with being named first-team All-Pro after leading the team with 110 tackles. It was the second year in a row that Weddle paced the squad in stops. Cornerback Brandon Flowers, a late free-agent signee, led the squad in interceptions and passes defended as the secondary combined to record 42 passes defended on the season. The group should also benefit from the return of cornerback Jason Verrett, the team's top pick in last year's NFL draft, who was limited to just six games due to injury.

There was plenty of optimism around the secondary heading into last season, especially because of the play of the group late in Milus' first season with the Bolts in 2013. The Chargers intercepted 10 passes in their last nine games of the 2013 season, playoffs included, after intercepting just four in the season's first nine games. The unit combined to break up 44 passes on the year, including a season-high 11 in a key December win against the New York Giants and eight more in the Bolts' Wild Card win in Cincinnati.

A native of Tacoma, Wash., Milus was a cornerback and return specialist at the University of Washington in the mid-1980s. He moved into coaching in 1988, starting at Tacoma's Lincoln High School. That led to a graduate assistant's position at Washington and then ultimately a seven-year stint as the Huskies' defensive backs coach. Washington made two Rose Bowl appearances during Milus' tenure and led the nation with 22 interceptions in 1993.

Milus moved on to the NFL in 2000, joining the Denver Broncos as defensive backs coach. In his first season, the secondary racked up 21 interceptions, its highest total since 1987. A year later in 2001, cornerback Deltha O'Neal made the Pro Bowl after tying for third in the NFL with nine interceptions. Milus spent three seasons in Denver before splitting time between Arizona, the New York Giants, St. Louis and Carolina. He returned to Denver for a second stint in 2011.

In 2012, the Broncos led the NFL in fewest yards allowed per pass play. They ranked second in total defense and third in pass defense en route to winning the AFC West with a 13-3 record and earning the top seed in the AFC playoffs. Cornerback Chris Harris returned two of his three interceptions for touchdowns and veteran corner Champ Bailey was selected to the Pro Bowl for the 12th time in his career.

Milus and his wife, Sandra, have two sons: Ryan and Bobby.

MIKE NOLAN

Linebackers
29th NFL Season
1st season with Chargers

Veteran NFL defensive coordinator Mike Nolan joined the Chargers in January as the team's linebackers coach.

Nolan's resume features 28 years of NFL coaching experience, including four seasons as an NFL head coach (San Francisco, 2005-08) and 17 seasons as a defensive coordinator. A collegiate safety at the University of Oregon, Nolan began his coaching career as a linebackers coach on both the collegiate and professional levels.

Nolan was the Falcons' defensive coordinator from 2012-14. He made an immediate impact in his first season in Atlanta as the Falcons recorded an NFC-best 13-3 record and earned the NFC's number-one seed in the playoffs. Atlanta finished fifth in the NFL in scoring defense (18.7 ppg.), red zone scoring defense (46.1 pct) and total takeaways (31) and interceptions (20). That season Nolan's defense faced three Super Bowl-winning quarterbacks at the Georgia Dome (Drew Brees, Peyton Manning and Eli Manning), and the three threw a combined one touchdown and 10 interceptions as the Falcons went 3-0 against the Saints, Broncos and Giants. Also in 2012, safeties Thomas DeCoud and William Moore both went to the Pro Bowl for the first time in their careers, while linebacker Sean Weatherspoon emerged to post a career-high 114 tackles.

Prior to his stint as defensive coordinator in Atlanta, Nolan held the same titles in Denver (2009) and Miami (2010-11). In Denver, he coordinated the defense opposite current Chargers Head Coach Mike McCoy, who was the Broncos' offensive coordinator at the time. In Nolan's only season in the Mile High City, Denver's team defense improved to seventh overall, including third in pass defense, after ranking 29th in total defense in 2008. And in Miami, the Dolphins ranked sixth in total defense, seventh in run defense and eighth in pass defense in 2010. Then in 2011, they ranked third against the run, sixth in scoring and red zone defense, seventh in third-down defense, and 10th in sacks.

From 2005-08, Nolan was the head coach in San Francisco. He followed in the footsteps of his father, Dick, who coached the 49ers for eight seasons (1968-75) during an 11-year NFL head coaching career. The 49ers were one of the NFL's most consistent teams in stopping the run during Nolan's tenure, ranking fourth in the league in fewest yards per carry allowed (3.9) during that period.

Nolan earned the head coaching job in San Francisco after a successful stint with his hometown team, the Baltimore Ravens, which included three seasons (2002-04) as their defensive coordinator. In 2002 he coached one of the league's youngest defenses, yet the Ravens recorded a franchise-record and AFC-leading 25 interceptions. Over the course of his three full seasons as coordinator, the Ravens tied for the NFL lead in takeaways (106), while ranking fifth in the league in points per game allowed (18.8). Five Baltimore defenders earned a total of nine trips to the Pro Bowl, and Nolan instructed back-to-back Associated Press NFL Defensive Players of the Year in Ray Lewis (2003) and Ed Reed (2004).

Nolan began his coaching career in 1981 as a graduate assistant at Oregon. From there he coached linebackers and defensive backs at Stanford (1982-83) and Rice (1984-85) before coaching linebackers at LSU in 1986. He landed his first NFL job with the Broncos, serving as both the linebackers coach and special teams coordinator from 1987-92. Denver went to two Super Bowls (XXII and XXIV) and an AFC Championship Game during his first stint there.

Nolan became a defensive coordinator for the first time in his career during the 1993-96 seasons with the New York Giants, helping them to the divisional playoffs in 1993 after their defense allowed a league-low 12.8 points per game. Just 33 years old at the time of his hiring, Nolan was the NFL's youngest defensive coordinator. He then spent the 1997-99 seasons in Washington, helping the Redskins to an NFC East crown in 1999, and then Nolan spent the 2000 season with the New York Jets before coaching in Baltimore.

Prior to embarking on his coaching career, Nolan was a three-year starter at safety at Oregon. He enrolled as a walk-on before becoming a starter. He went to training camp with the Broncos in 1981, but returned to Oregon following his release.

Nolan and his wife, Kathy, have four children: Michael, Christopher, Laura and Jennifer.

OLLIE WILSON

Running Backs
25th NFL Season
13th season with Chargers

One of the longest-tenured assistant coaches in franchise history, Ollie Wilson continues to demonstrate why he's one of the most highly-regarded running backs coaches in the National Football League.

With the Bolts' running back corps hit hard by injury last season, Wilson helped prepare Branden Oliver, an undrafted rookie from the University of Buffalo, to become the team's leading rusher and a two-time winner of the NFL's Pepsi Rookie of the Week award. Wilson also made sure that his charges protected the football and the results were outstanding as the team's running backs didn't lose a single fumble in nearly 400 carries on the season.

San Diego's backfield in 2014 looked a lot different than it did during the Bolts' playoff season in 2013 when the team rushed for 1,965 yards, including a career-high 1,255 by workhorse Ryan Mathews. It was the eighth-highest total in franchise history. Mathews tally included an NFL-leading 534 yards in the month of December as the Chargers went 4-1 and pushed their way into the playoffs. Wilson worked diligently with Mathews on his ball security and the effort paid off handsomely as he lost just one fumble in 311 touches. Mathews also rediscovered his nose for the end zone, tying his career high with seven touchdowns. Complementing Mathews in the backfield was newcomer Danny Woodhead, who set career highs and finished the regular season with the most touchdown catches among NFL running backs and the second-most receptions and receiving yards.

A native of Worcester, Mass., Wilson was selected for induction into the 2014-15 Class of the Worcester Public Schools Athletic Hall of Fame. He lettered in football, basketball, baseball and track at Doherty High School before moving on to Springfield College where he became an honorable mention All-America wide receiver and earned bachelor's and master's degrees in physical education.

Wilson made inroads to the NFL by participating in the league's Minority Coaching Internship Program with both the Houston Oilers and Atlanta Falcons. He began his NFL coaching career with the Falcons in 1991 and from 1991-96, he mentored three 1,000-yard rushers, including the late Craig "Ironhead" Heyward, a Pro Bowl pick in 1995.

Wilson is now in the midst of his second stint with the Chargers. The final year of his first go-around was 2001, when LaDainian Tomlinson rushed for a team rookie-record 1,236 yards and 10 touchdowns en route to all-rookie and Pro Bowl alternate honors.

Wilson returned to Atlanta in 2002 and over the next six seasons, the Falcons rushed for an NFL-best 13,994 yards and set several team rushing records, including single-season rushing yards (2,939 in 2006) and touchdowns (23 in 2002).

The 2015 season will mark Wilson's eighth back in San Diego. Since 2008, the Chargers have scored 83 touchdowns on the ground and averaged more than 1,650 rushing yards per season, including a high of 1,965 in 2013.

Wilson is married to Nadine.

Three of the four (Keenan Allen, Malcom Floyd and Eddie Royal) were wide receivers. The fourth was tight end Antonio Gates. The same four players also finished the season with more than 50 catches each, just the fourth time in franchise history that a team had four 50-catch players.

QUALCOMM STADIUM

Qualcomm Stadium, the Chargers' home since 1967, underwent an expansion in 1997 that included the addition of 11,500 seats, a club level, 37 new suites and a new west-end Jumbotron screen.

The centerpiece of the renovated stadium was the Club level. Chargers season ticket members who purchase seats on the Club level enjoy amenities exclusive to Club members. The 7,800 Club seats are wider and padded, and come equipped with an attached drink holder. Club members enjoy wait service at their seats, featuring a menu complete with a variety of food specialties, as well as the comfort of four fan-friendly lounges where they can relax in an air-conditioned setting before, during and after games. Restrooms on the Club level also are upgraded.

The former Jack Murphy Stadium was renamed Qualcomm Stadium after the Qualcomm Corporation contributed $18 million for naming rights. Additionally, the total number of parking spaces at the stadium was increased to 19,000, including 461 handicapped spaces, making the parking lot at Qualcomm Stadium the second-largest in the National Football League. There was a significant increase in restroom capacity at the stadium, with the number of women's facilities almost doubled and the men's restroom capacity increased by 33 percent.

San Diego Stadium was originally built in 1967 as a home for the Chargers at a cost of $27 million. It was dedicated at a Chargers-Lions game on August 20, 1967, before a crowd of 45,988. The 1997 renovation marks the second major facelift to occur at the stadium. Originally built to a capacity of 52,000, the stadium was expanded in 1984 to increase seating capacity to 60,100. The most recent renovation increased the seating capacity at the stadium to approximately 70,000.

The team played before its first-ever sellout crowd on December 3, 1967, when 52,661 turned out to see the Chargers battle the Oakland Raiders.
